Kat Wolfe Investigates by Lauren St John

Set in a cove along the beautiful Jurassic coast in Dorset, this is a quintessentially English mystery. It has all the ingredients required to keep the reader interested: a resourceful heroine in Kat Wolfe, her super-bright sidekick Harper Lamb and a suitably sinister villain.

Throw in a motley collection of animals and people and you have a recipe for success in this new series.

Kat's Mom is a vet and it is after they move to Bluebell Bay to take on the empty practice that Kat's life becomes embroiled in several mysteries at once.

Taking on the role of "pet minder", Kat agrees to look after Bailey the parrot whilst his owner is away. But why did Ramon Corvez leave in such a hurry? And what does the mysterious parcel that is delivered for him contain? Can the London Oxford Street Phantom be connected to the events in Dorset? And, perhaps the biggest question of all, what is the significance of Reg's missing pumpkin?

Super storytelling from Lauren St John; brilliant characters, wonderful location and a page-turning plot.
